MILLIONS WANT BREAD

Advices From China Indicate Great Need

American Red Cross Anxious to Aid in Halting Grim Destroyer.

Recent advices from China indicate that conditions in the famine districts are as bad as have been rumored and are growing worse as days go by. Two and a half million Chinese will die for the want of bread if assistance is not rendered immediately. This number comprises nearly the entire population of the northern part of the provinces of Kiang-Su and Buhui.

The famine in China is the direct result of the great floods which inundated the provinces mentioned last summer, ruining the crops. Consequently there was no harvest and the supply of food on hand was not sufficient to sustain the people of these sections until the next harvest. In fact, unless prompt aid is rendered there will not be a next harvest, as the Chinese will eat the seed instead of planting it. During the first day of the famine mothers endeavored to sell their babies to provide food for themselves and save the children from starvation. Now they are trying to give the children away in the hope that those to whom the babies are given will be able to feed them. Along the banks of the Grand Canal the victims of this terrible calamity are living in mud and water, with only shacks of matting over their heads, hoping against hope that they may exist until boats bearing the stuff of life comes up the canal to relieve them.

Writing from Hwai Yuan, via Nanking, E. C. Lobenstine, of the American Presbyterian Mission, describing the conditions which exist in the country immediately about Hwai Yuan, says:

"The majority of Hwai Yuan has an estimated population of 300,000 persons. The number of famine sufferers—those who must be relieved or die—in this majority alone, amounts to, approximately, 200,000—70 per cent of the entire population. Last year the flood was the worst here in many years, and the crops were poor. The wheat suffered from drought and only one third was saved. This year about half of the wheat was harvested, but in the region north of Hwai two tornadoes and then the flood carried away practically everything.

"The need here is great, and the condition of the poor is as serious as that in other parts. Reports come in daily of people dying of starvation. The poor who have children are trying to sell them, but even they will not sell for pittance. Help is needed at once. As soon as the real cold and wet weather sets in the death rate will increase greatly.

"One million people are dependent on outside relief, and these will die of starvation if relief is not given and they are kept in this region. Five months must be counted on, and a family cannot exist on less than one cent per head per day, if for that.

"We are eagerly hoping for help from the Red Cross Society."

This statement only gives an idea of the conditions in one portion of the great famine district. This morning, to a correspondent, Miss Boardman, of the American Red Cross, stated:

"The plague is creeping southward towards this famine district. It has ravaged Manchuria, and thousands of refugees who have fled to Chefoo, in Chantung Province, have carried it there. Hundreds of deaths occur daily. The frozen ground prevents the burial of the dead and long rows of coffins lie on the roadside. American Consul-General Wilder, at Shanghai, cabled to the Red Cross that people stricken with this plague die within a few hours, and that it is of so fatal a nature no one ever recovers. The people have at last consented to cremation and several thousand of these bodies have been burned.

"The Red Cross has sent from Manila Dr. Richard Strong and Dr. Oscar Teague, plague experts, to aid the Chinese Government to fight the spread of this fatal pestilence. It is now only about 150 miles from the provinces in which the famine exists, and if it ever reaches there the result will be appalling."

President Taft, as President of the American Red Cross, has sent out an urgent appeal to our people to aid China, which is suffering from these dual calamities. Contributions of money can be sent to Mr. John B. Atkinson, Earlinton, Ky., member of the Kentucky Red Cross Board.

If the people of America desire to help these sufferers in China they must act immediately. The Red Cross makes all remittances to China by cable, through the State Department, thus insuring safe passage of funds from the giver to the beneficiary and the speedy application of such funds where they will do the most good.

Polk Blair, who is employed as machinist at the Round house had the misfortune to lose a valuable diamond ring, his watch and a month's salary Monday night.

He was working on the night shift and sometime during the night left his valuables in the shack a few moments, when he returned they were gone and no trace of the thief has yet been discovered.

HELD DISTRICT MEETING HERE

Earlington Royal Arch Masons Have Lodge of Instruction and Inspection.

BEAUTIFUL BANQUET SERVED BY WIVES OF PRINCIPAL OFFICERS.

Earlington Royal Arch Chapter held a meeting Wednesday afternoon and evening of unusual interest to members of the order, at which all the degrees were conferred. The principal feature of the occasion was the visit of Grand High Priest Harry Bailey, of Cynthiana, who came upon invitation, to hold a Lodge of Instruction and to confer the Royal Arch degree, for purpose of demonstration, which he did with assistance of the local team and R. W. Overall, of Madisonville, who had a leading part. Annual inspection was made, too, by Frank H. Johnson, inspecting officer, of Louisville. A beautiful banquet was spread by Mesdames A. O. Sisk, Frank D. Rash and H. L. Brownrigg, in which the Washington birthday idea was well carried out, and all were fed to a queen's (or three queens') taste.

Among the visiting Masons present were R. W. Overall, N. I. Toombs and E. L. Hendricks, Madisonville; Hiram Brown, Crofton; C. B. Collett, D. W. Wayland, J. A. Kirkman and Walter Wendelkin, Henderson.

Dr. A. O. Sisk is high priest of the local chapter. Earlinton was the one place selected by the grand officer in the bounds of this judicial district, at which to demonstrate this work.

Society Happenings

Mrs. Jno. Long Entertains.

Mrs. Jno. Long entertained a number of her friends at a six course dinner Wednesday. The table was artistically decorated with red carnations and red candles. The place cards white hatchets and all was in keeping with Washington's Birthday.

The menu consisted of all the delicacies of the season. The conversation was replete with the sparkle of spontaneous humor.

Following were the guests: Mr. and Mrs. Ed Trehern, Mr. and W. S. McGary, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Withers, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Browning, Mrs. Thuyer and Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Long.

Sunday School Class Entertains.
Miss Annie Ashby's Sunday School class entertained very successfully with a birthday supper Tuesday night at the M. E. Church. The church was decorated in honor of Washington's birthday and the souvenirs consisted of small, red, white and blue hatchets.

A very entertaining program consisting of music, readings, etc. were rendered and several interesting contests were introduced. The prize of the evening, a likeness of Washington, was one by Miss Sarah Crutchfield. Delightful refreshments of punch and cake were served.

Strange to say there were only four families represented, Smith Pumpkin-seed, Snodgrass and Beanpole, but as each family consisted of quite a number of members, the class realized quite a sum of money to be used for the erection of the new church.

NEIGHBORS.

All the grasping and the greed of this world come from not regarding our fellows as our neighbors. One doesn't trample his neighbors. He works with them to a common end. We must come to look on all the world as our neighbors. We must do away with the idea of classes. There isn't any justification for class lines in America. They are unjust, unwholesome, unrighteous and un-American. Why should we have class lines here in this country and one man despise another just because he has been lucky enough to make a little more money? A man has some right to be proud of what he makes with his own hands and his own brains, but he hasn't any business putting on airs over what he is merely trying to spend. —Jacob A. Riis.

SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

All Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston, Mo. — "For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl." —Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It is more widely and successfully used than any other remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed. Why don't you try it?

Your Comb.
Comba should not be washed with water. This is apt to split the teeth. A stiff nailbrush is a good thing to keep for cleaning them. After using the brush take a damp cloth and wipe between each tooth with this.

For sore throat there is positively no remedy that will relieve so quickly and cure permanently the most aggravated case, as Bloodine Rheumatic Liniment. St. Bernard Mining Co., Incorporated, Drug Department, special agents.

Gush.
Not all gushing letters are written with fountain pens.

Willing to Change.

While little Bess was being put to bed a thunderstorm set in, and she began to shiver at the thought of being left alone.

"Oh, there's nothing to be afraid of, dearie," said her mother. "I must go down to stay with papa; but God is right here with you, and he won't let any thing harm you."

For the moment the child was pacified, but presently there came a clasp that made the window rattle.

"Mamma!" piped a tremulous little voice from the upper landing.

"Yes, dear?"

"Won't you please come up here and stay with God, and let me go down and stay with papa?" —Harper's Magazine.

A few minutes delay in treating some cases of croup, even the length of time it takes to go for a doctor often proves dangerous. The safest way is to keep Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house, and at the first indication of croup give the child dose. Pleasant to take and always cures. Sold by Geo. King & Sons.

Good Things Are Eternal.

Bring your children up to be happy. Don't let them be any more superstitious than you can help. But, at any rate, avoid one horrible, haunting belief that good things can't last. The good things are the only eternal things of the world.

Accused of Stealing.

E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Mo., boldly accuses Bucklen's Arnica Salve of stealing—the sting from burns or scalds—the pain from sores of all kinds—the distress from boils or piles. "It robs cuts, corns, bruises, sprains and injuries of their terror," he says, "as a healing remedy its equal don't exist." Only 25¢ at all druggists.

Found Fossil Stag.

While the local builders were digging a foundation for a new building, a fossil stag was found, and a hundred dollars were offered for the skull.

Swallowed Toothbrush Fatal.

Howard Bolton, on whom an inquest was held at the London, England, hospital, died from the effects of swallowing a toothbrush while endeavoring to dislodge a piece of meat that had stuck in his throat.

Heroic Treatment.

Little Marjorie, aged four, bumped her head on a key in the front door. She went in the house and put some cold cream on a rag and then went to the door and tied the key up carefully. As she was leaving she said: "I will call in the morning to see how you are."

Plow Ahead.
Pay as little attention to discouragements as possible. Plow ahead as a steamer does, rough or smooth, rain or shine. To carry your cargo and make your port is the point.—Maitland D. Babcock.

The Best Way.

When you resist the temptation to go the Sour Way, don't go too far and go the Sweet Way. Some people have such sweet dispositions that they are disagreeable. The best way is the Quiet Way—to let people alone, as much as possible.—Atchison Globe.

He Kept Moving.
"There goes a man I might have married." "Yes, and you observe he keeps moving."

TUBERCULOSIS DAY—APRIL 30TH.

Churches of Kentucky Will Fight Consumption—Hope to Enlist 250,000 Church Members.

April 30, has been set aside this year as "Tuberculosis Day," and will be observed by 200,000 churches in the country in a manner similar to that of "Tuberculosis Sunday" in 1910, when over 40,000 sermons were preached on the prevention of Consumption.

The Kentucky Association for the study and prevention of Tuberculosis states that it will make a special effort to enlist every one of over 1200 ministers in Kentucky to give their co-operation in bringing this vitally important subject before members of their respective churches. It is estimated that in this way over 250,000 persons in Kentucky will be enlisted in this movement.

In one respect "Tuberculosis Day" of this year will differ from "Tuberculosis Sunday" of 1910. Instead of requesting the churches to give to the Tuberculosis cases a special Sunday service, the State Association is this year going to ask that meetings at which Tuberculosis and its prevention be discussed, be held on Sunday, April, 30, or on any day near that date, either in the week preceding or the week following.

The object is to get as many people in Kentucky as possible to think about this great problem at the same time.

It is conservatively estimated that there are in Kentucky today at least 20,000 persons suffering from this disease in some form or other.

The State Association is planning to distribute educational leaflets in connection with this day and it is earnestly desired that the public will take an active part in stamping out this preventable disease which sends over 6,500 of our citizens to an

BY AILEEN DAVIS.

Woman's Book Club. The Woman's Book Club was beautifully entertained on Wednesday afternoon, February 22, at the home of Mrs. Ruby Laffoon in East Center street.

In commemoration of Washington's birthday, the rooms were prettily decorated in flags and clusters of every bâches, while vases of red and white carnations and ferns lent themselves beautifully to the color scheme of the interior decoration.

"The Campaign in 1813", the subject under discussion during the afternoon was, interestingly given by Mrs. W. J. Dulin.

In the absence of Mrs. Atkinson, the story of "Talleyrand" was beautifully sketched by Mrs. J. F. Dempsey.

After the program had been completed, Little Misses Martha Laffoon and Lelia Laffoon, dressed as "Martha Washington" and "Uncle Sam", were introduced to the ladies and rendered several most excellent national selections.

Visitors present during the social hour were: Mesdames W. H. Yost, H. H. Holman, Sallie Holman, Ida Walker, Fulton Baker and Miss Ethel Goltoday, of Hopkinsville.

An elegant luncheon in five course, carrying out the color scheme was daintily served. The individual ices were pink hatchets' with the raised bust of Washington in white. On the top of the squares of angel food were branches of candied cherries.

Valentine Party.

A delightful valentine party was given Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. J. S. Miles, on South Walnut street. The decorations were red and white carnations, and the rooms were lighted with oriental lanterns. Music was furnished by Miss May Oldham. In a happy contest, Mr.

HE HAD A THOUGHT

"If there's anything a man dislikes in a woman! What he likes a whole-souled honesty in looks as well as in manners! You can always tell the real thing!"

"Of course," agreed Winnie Hill admiringly. Winnie always made him by her promptness in agreeing with masculine opinions as laid out by them themselves. She was very pretty—after a rich and brilliant fashion—and she and young Bailey Yarger were engaged to be married.

"That's what first attracted me to you," Yarger went on, admiringly. "A fellow can't help but admire genuineness when he meets it."

"Three of my puffs are just pinned on," Winnie reminded him, virtuously. She looked pathetic as she said it and he patted her shoulder encouragingly.

"Oh, well," he reassured her, "if that's the style in hairdressing you're not to blame! You just do as others do and it's no fault of yours! What I can't understand is why women think they fool any one! A blind man can detect a drug-store complexion a block away, and as for the ruby hair or the glittering golden locks they turn out while you walk—if you've got the price—well, all I've got to say is if a wife of mine made such a goose of herself I don't believe I ever could think the same of her again!"

"Of course not," agreed Winnie Hill. "You've got too much sense!"

"They can't fool me!" said Yarger, grimly. "I've got my eyes open as much as the next one, haven't I, little girl?"

"You're terribly smart," Winnie murmured, still admiringly. "I always wonder, when I stop to think about it, what you ever saw in me to make you fall in love with me!"

"I couldn't help doing it," explained Yarger, fondly. "I guess you're as smart as I am any day of the week when it comes to that! And did you ever look in the glass?"

"I don't like to be flattered," Winnie reminded him, pouting in the manner which means that a woman likes it very much, indeed. "I don't like to think it's just my looks—"

"It isn't," protested Yarger. "I'm not saying that they don't help! It's kind of nice to have the girl you fall in love with a mighty good looker, besides being everything else that's nice. And your face is real!"

"You'll make me vain in a minute," Winnie said, sweetly. She regarded him seriously with pensive brown eyes. "I guess women like men," she added, irrelevantly, "because they're so child-like! The nicer they are the more juvenile they seem to be!"

"How old am I then?" Yarger inquired.

"Oh," Winnie told him, meditatively, with her head on one side, "you're about 2½, I think!"

For some days afterward Miss Hill appeared thoughtful. Something seemed to have dampened her spirits. Yarger wondered about it helplessly. One night when he called to take her to the theater he observed as she descended the stairs that she seemed actually solemn.

"Don't you feel well?" he inquired solicitously as she walked over toward the mantel mirror.

She made no answer, but opened her silver mesh bag and with deliberation extracted several articles which she carefully laid on the mantel shelf.

Leaning forward, she proceeded to do something at which Yarger, watching her, gasped.

Winnie looked around with the eyebrow pencil in her fingers. "You see," she said casually, "my eyebrows grow so very dark and thick at the start and then dwindle out to nothing from the middle to the other end that I have to help them out. Otherwise I'd look like a freak. There—how's that?"

Apparently she did not observe his stupefied silence. She went on with her work. "I've such a lot of color as a usual thing," she murmured, "that if I happen to be a little pale I look dreadful and then I dab it on gently! It's a new kind and really it doesn't show! When I have a cold in the head, as I have tonight, I always look washed out. And"—Miss Hill turned and faced Yarger defiantly—"and I loath gray hair! When mine begins to turn I'm going to dye it if it takes the last cent in the family treasury! If you can't detect it any more readily than you've detected my occasional rouge and my poor little eyebrow pencil I don't see that it'll do any hurt, so there, now!"

"It was your childlike trust that made me tell you, Bailey! I couldn't bear to go on deceiving you! And now—if you can't love me any more why—why, just say so!"

Yarger recovered himself. "You may paint yourself purple, green and blue if you want to Winnie!" he said, heroically. "Somehow my affection doesn't seem blighted a particle! I guess it makes a difference who the girl happens to be! But to think I never noticed!"

"That," said Winnie, putting away her handkerchief, "is because you are a man, you darling!"

An incorrigible. "When I started in life I hadn't nearly your advantages," said the father.

"Quite true," replied the gilded youth. "But you shouldn't reproach me for that. Speak to grandfather."

Sarah Bernhardt.

The clergy and the stricter church-women finally succeeded in forcing the mayor to prohibit Sarah Bernhardt from producing "La Samaritaine" during her Philadelphia engagement. The controversy was very similar to that in regard to the production of "Salomé" in Philadelphia several years ago. As Roseland has treated the subject with the reverence and delicacy of the disciple, many of those who took active part in the agitation over "Salomé" declined to have their names mentioned on this occasion. In order to show the great actress that the agitation was against the play and not against her personality, the Art Club gave a large reception in her honor after the performance, the hostesses including Mrs. Charlemagne Tower, the wife of the former Minister to Berlin; Mrs. John Howard McFadden, whose husband is widely known as a patron of art; Mrs. William Henry Newbold, Mrs. Jasper Yeates Brinton, Mrs. Thomas Shelton Harrison and Mrs. Charles M. AD-TALK

What would you think of a salesman who reported for duty one day, lay off for two, worked a half day, went off for a week and so on without any regularity? Surely you would not expect good service from such a man. And yet some merchants hold advertising, which is simply a "salesman," up to great results when it is allowed to "work" very irregularly.

The fact that advertising costs money is proof of its value. Things without cost are usually worth only their price.

GOOD ROADS---WHAT THEN?

(William J. Bartscher in Pack.)

I walked to town one day
In the long ago,
And walked back
I said:
"These roads seem to be a little bad!"
And soon the roads got better.

I walked once again,
And rode back on a bicycle---
A hundred punctures,
And the wheel was out of date.
I cried:
"These roads are simply awful!"
And the roads continued to get better.

Once more I walked to town,
And rode back in an automobile.
A hundred breakdowns,
And the auto, too, was out of date.
I swore: "These roads are a disgrace!"
And immediately the roads became perfect.

And still again I walked to town,
And sailed back in an airship.
I declared: "Just as I expected.
Now that we have good roads
We don't need them!"

DIRE DISTRESS

It Is Near at Hand to Hundred of Earlington Readers.

Don't neglect an aching back.
Backache is the kidneys' cry for help.

Neglect hurrying to their aid
Means that urinary troubles follow quickly.

Dire distress, diabetes, Bright's disease.

John Davenport, Wilson street, Earlington, Ky., says: "I suffered more severely from kidney trouble than words can describe. My back was so sore and lame that I could not do any work for days at a time. The kidney secretions were scanty and there was a constant pain in my head. I often became dizzy and dark spots appeared before my eyes. Nothing helped me until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the St. Bernard Drug Store. I felt much better after taking them a few days and from that time on I improved steadily until I was in good health."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Murphy Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name--Doan's and take no other.

Progress.

I was talking with an aged, but very progressive, farmer not long ago and remarked that the course of improvement in farm methods seemed slow. "Bless you, my boy," he answered, "when I started in we only raised nine bushels of wheat to the acre in my state, and now we raise thirteen. I think I've done pretty well." It seems to me that that is not a bad way to look at it. If every one does his part progress is certain. If it does seem slow.---A. M. R.

Daniel Boone on the Trail.

When the sons of men go forth to war, they have never lacked their leader. For scaling the unplanned sea and daring the rim of the world, there are gentlemen a-plenty to take the trail. Such a man was Daniel Boone. When he blazed the trail into Kentucky, this mighty hunter had no army at his back and his one object was to open up a virgin territory for the on coming race.

The history of no man is filled with adventures, the hair breadth escapes and almost unbearable trials as is that of Boone. With his trusty rifle, his knowledge of woodcraft and his ability to make friendship with the savage Indians, opened up that fertile spot known as Kentucky.

The play of Daniel Boone on the Trail that comes to the Temple Theatre depicts a most interesting part of this most exciting invasion. There are heart thrills a-plenty. At his council of war with the chiefs of the Shawnee Indians you will see the method used by the savages in their dealings with the white race.

Never before on any stage has any such thrilling scene been shown as where Boone grabs the hand of Blackfish and stops him from hurl-

RED CROSS SACRED

Protest Against Red Cross Sausage Casings, Tooth Brushes and Dynamite—Penalties.

USE FOR ADVERTISING PURPOSES PROHIBITED BY LAW.

The American Red Cross has requested the Solicitor General of the United States to advise it as to the proper steps for the enforcement of that section of its federal character relating to the use of its emblem and name for advertising purposes by manufacturers, retailers, physicians, charitable organizations, barbers and others.

It is believed that many persons who have the emblem or the name of the Red Cross for advertising purposes do so in ignorance of the fact that such use is forbidden by law with penalties for violation which, in aggravated cases, may be a fine of $500 and imprisonment for one year. The scope of the law is shown by the following extract:

The United States has entered into a treaty with all the civilized governments of the world to prevent the use of the emblem and name of the Red Cross except as above stated, and this is intended as a means of complying with the terms of the treaty.

Already there are evidences that public sentiment is responding to this movement to respect the peculiar significance of the Red Cross and to protect it against abuse. The American Medical Association, the American Hospital Association, and the Association of Military Surgeons have put themselves on record in favor of the movement. Ambulances in New York have given up the Red Cross and have adopted the Green St. Andrew's cross instead. The retail druggist's Association and the Master Barber's Association have passed resolutions urging their members to refrain from the use of the symbol of the Red Cross.

From many sources are coming protests against the use of this emblem, which means so much to the soldier on the battlefield and the sufferer in time of disaster, as an advertisement of such things as dynamite, sausage casings, kindling wood, toilet paper, washboards, stoves, shoes, mineral water, toothbrushes and the like. The officers of the American Red Cross are hoping that the example of a great department store in Los Angeles may be widely followed. The proprietor of this store has declined to carry in stock any article bearing the Red Cross as a trade-mark.

Semi-Weekly Bee
Earlington, Kentucky

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, head ache, backache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. A trial will convince anyone.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

Make Your Store-Advertising as Much a Fixed Feature of Every Issue of This Newspaper as is Our Local Page.

A "feature," or department, of a newspaper wins its readers a few at a time.

Out of thousands who "scan" and "glance at" a store's advertising in this issue, a few hundred will read ALL OF THAT STORE'S ADVERTISEMENT IN THE NEXT ISSUE. But, if that store's advertisement does not APPEAR IN THE NEXT ISSUE, this process of winning regular readers is broken up.

It would be so with our Local Page. If it did not appear REGULARLY, it would forfeit the interest and attention of MOST OF ITS READERS. And the same would be true of our News Page, of our Society Page, and of other features of the paper, which build up their circles of readers surely and steadily, issue by issue.

A store's advertising gets to be MOST EFFECTIVE after it has become a REGULAR FEATURE of the paper—gaining with EVERY ISSUE, new "regular readers," AND HOLDING THOSE GAINED by making the store news really important to them.

This is the law and the "secret" of store-advertising success—ALL OF IT.

"Well, heaven knows you need one!" asserted Dolly.—(Toledo Blade.)

Question of Sex.

A local ironworker who has been married a couple of years always declared that his first son should be named Mat, after one of his best friends. Learning that the ironworker and his wife had recently been blessed with a charming baby, a friend smiled all over his face when he greeted the father on the street. "Well," he beamed, "how is little Mat?" "Mat, nothing," answered the father, "it's Matress."—Youngstown Telegram.

Under Colored Glass.

A Swiss professor of agriculture has been experimenting with cultivation under colored glass, and finds, according to the Review Scientifique, that ordinary transparent glass gives the best results. Orange glass forces the plants, but hurts the fruit; violet glass increases the quantity of fruit; but lowers the quality; red, blue and green glass are positively injurious.

Heaven or Hell.

If heaven has not begun for you already it is idle for you to be looking forward to some future day in some distant place when it will begin. And the discontent, the unrest, the envy, the jealousy, the bitterness, the groveling mind, the perverse will, the unsocial temper—if these are your present experiences, they have only to continue and become chronic to make hell more dread than Milton ever painted.—Washington Gladson

After Huge Success in Other Territory—
More Popular Than Ever.

Della Fox is without doubt the most popular comedienne in America. This charming actress has soared to the heights in the theatrical firmament, attained by but few and her fame and popularity seem to increase yearly. Her presence in other territory seems to have been demanded continually, and the announcement that she will be with us once more is a welcome morsel of news. She will appear at the Wells-Bijou on Sunday, Feb. 26.

A special matinee has been arranged for Sunday afternoon to provide for the accommodation of her many followers who would undoubtedly be unable to procure seats for the evening performance. Her present starring vehicle is a sparkling three act comedy with music from the pen of Henri Morvant, and entitled "Delightful Dolly." The press are unanimous in declaring that this play is the most admirably suited comedy in which she has ever favored us. It is strictly humorous affair and displays the winsomeness and irresistible personality of Della Fox to the best advantage and abounds in ludicrous situations and witty dialogue. Her supporting company is one of uniform excellence, while the production is wholly adequate in every particular.

A cordial reception will unquestionably be given this vivacious little lady, and if the crowded houses in other cities thus favored is any criterion Evansville will have its name added to the list of S. R. O. engagements.

"The young man who called on me last night says there is a fool in every family."

"Was he trying to advance that as a reason why we should take him into ours?"

Refreshing Disinfectant.

The following is a refreshing disinfectant for sick room or any room having an unpleasant odor pervading it: Put some fresh ground coffee in a saucer and in the center place a small piece of camphor gum, which light with a match. As the gum burns allow enough coffee to consume with it. The perfume is pleasant and healthful, being far superior to pastilles, and much cheaper.

"If people only use common sense there's not a bit of chance for marriages to turn out unhappily. Just look at the Carlitons here—anybody can see they're unhappy" because he just buries himself in his newspaper at meals and snaps it when he asks him to pass anything. I didn't get a bit of salad the other night because my waiter took it away while I was watching to see if Carlton wouldn't speak to his wife before he finished his coffee.

"I don't see how she stands it—it's so apparent to outsiders. I feel so sorry for her that I just hate to catch her eye when I'm looking at them. She has a way of looking up suddenly when you don't expect it. I should think she'd have known by the shape of his chin that she'd no business to marry him. Some women never pay any attention to those things.

"Didn't that automobile wake you up the other night? Why, the big green one that stopped out in front of the hotel about half past three and changed away for such a long time. I think whoever came home in it hadn't any money to pay the bill and the chauffeur had to go inside to collect it."

"That Grossbeck man wasn't down to breakfast at all the next morning—I know, because I went early to mine and then read my paper in the lobby, and I could see every one who came out of the dining room, and he never appeared. I'd hate to say for certain that he was the one who came home in that automobile, but I have my suspicions. He always looks as though he came out of a bandbox, too, and a man like that'll bear watching.

"Shouldn't you think that woman with the pinkish hair would get tired running downtown so much? I kept track one week and she went out six mornings straight. She wears her bestable furs to shop in, too, and that's what drives a lot of husbands to drink, such extravagance. Sable is so delicate. I should think she could find enough useful things to do at home instead of gadding about so much. I'll warrant she doesn't keep her husband's socks darned. It's the most curious color for hair. I'd hate to say she dyed it but what's a person to think, I'd like to know? Six times in one week."

"You may say maybe she's going to the dentist? Oh, well, perhaps so, but I don't believe it. This time of year everybody is too busy to bother with the dentist. She was just hunting up more doodads to spend her husband's money for, that's what she was up to. I think it's a shame—and he looks so gray. Well, perhaps he is old enough to be gray, anyhow, but if she'd be the right sort of wife, instead of extravagant, he wouldn't be half worried into his grave.

"Do you suppose those clerks read the postal cards before they distribute them in our boxes? They seem to take such a long time over the mail.

Mrs. Blings, the grass widow, got one from Europe yesterday. I was standing right there when the postman laid the bundle down and it was on top. She seems quiet, but I'll warrant she's deep. Corresponding with some man abroad is a bad sign.

"Yes," the nice little old woman concluded, "I'm getting a good rest here, because there's absolutely nothing to distract me and occupy my mind. Sometimes I wish there was something for me to take an interest in!"

"There are all sorts of ways to get rich."

"Yes, indeed. Some men sell bogus mining stock and some just rob the Illinois Central railroad."

Nothing to Think About

"You old, little old woman, you're here again in the lobby of the hotel. You don't get up our house, and how could I get up a little old woman?" "I'm not a little old woman," said the old woman. "I'm a broody hen, and that's why I'm here. I'd never be a broody hen as long as I had a hen's nest to fuss over. I'd be a broody hen in things when I do, and I'd be a broody hen when I don't. I know what the old hen said, and I'm not a broody hen thinking and planning." The doctor said I needed a complete mental rest with no responsibility or anything to distract me, and that's why we went to boarding.

"I like it here—don't you? Of course I don't know that I like all the people. For instance, the folks in the room next to mine must be dubious. They come home at all hours of the night, my dear, all hours. They walk perfectly straight down the corridor, because I can tell by their steps, but you needn't tell me that two o'clock in the morning is a respectable hour for a man and his wife to get home three or four nights every week."

"You don't happen to know their name, do you? Not that I care—I just wondered."

"That's a pretty girl who just went by—the one in the lynx fur. Oh, you must have noticed her. She's the one that sits at the table under the electric fan nearest the north window and a young man with straight-up blond hair comes to see her every Tuesday evening. There's another one calls, too, but he's not so regular. She's so dark that they'd make a fine couple, wouldn't they?" were played, Mrs. C. A. Morton, of Madisonville, secured the greatest number of points, won the beautiful prize, a quaint flat Rockwood candle stick.

A most excellent lunch was served at the conclusion of the game.

Those included in the club present were: Messrs. Paul Banks, C. A. Morton, H. F. Head, Claude Ruby, d. D. McPherson, Jr., A. R. Cummings, Fred Remke, L. E. Ruby, R. S. Dulin, Jr., G. G. Newbold and Misses Florence Ally and Elizabeth Victory were invited guests.

"Now, don't tell me you were detained by business or any such importunate story as that."

"I won't, my dear. I was chased many blocks out of my way by a bull rhinoceros."

Height of Goodness.
He is good that does good to others. If he suffers for the good he does, he is better still; and if he suffers from them to whom he did good, he is arrived to that height of goodness, that nothing but an increase of his sufferings can add to it; if it proves his death, his virtue is at its summit; it is heroic complete.—Bruyere.

Knowledge.
Knowledge is indeed that which next to virtue, truly and essentially raises one man above another. It finishes one half of the human soul. It makes being pleasant to us, fills the mind with entertaining views, and ministers to it a perpetual series of gratification. It gives ease to solitude and gracefulness to retirement.—Addison.

How He Made His Money.
A rich old man was asked how he made his money. "Simplest thing in the world," he said. "I always did the reverse of what everybody else was doing. If everybody bought, I sold—prices were high. If everybody sold, I bought—prices were low."

Found Equivalent.
"Did you discover the north pole?" "Not exactly," replied the explorer. "But I found a place that was sufficiently cold and lonely to be its practical equivalent."
